

A Passion for Punishment

When we discovered a passion for punishment, it was the beginning of the most exciting time in our marriage. It seemed I came alive when my husband told me to bend over a table or desk or knee so he could deal with me as he saw fit. But I wanted more. I wanted to know how it would be if we took discipline a step further, and it became much more than a sexy game. What would happen then? This is a complete short story of 10,000 words, just right for a sizzling hot read at bedtime or anytime you feel like a break. Due to mature themes and content, this story is not suitable for children or those who are offended by such stories.

First, last, and always, this is the truth about communication with animals: Punishment is the lowest form of expression. A photo of this foster dog When I was young I was passionate about sport.
